Maintain Support of your Perpetual Licenses

VMware products that were once available for license purchase are now only being offered as part of subscription bundles, leading to steep price hikes over multi-year terms.

With renewals approaching, enterprises lack the time needed to evaluate and shift to alternative virtualization environments (both hypervisors and management systems). For many, these are business-critical systems, and exploring self-support options is too risky. Finding the best path forward isn't always clear and leads to questions such as:

- How can I justify this substantial price increase to my CFO?
- If I transition away from Broadcom support, what strategies can I employ to prevent potential security risks?
- How can I make sure I'm setting my organization up for success based on the evolution of the hyper-converged infrastructure market?
- Since I am already moving to a public cloud, how will this subscription model affect my plans?
- Should I move to an open-source solution like KVM? Do I have time to evaluate these options?
